BEN RUCKER is an Associate at Legacy Commercial Property Advisors. After graduating from The University of Oklahoma with a Bachelor's in Journalism, he headed south to begin his career in advertising as a copywriter in Dallas. There, he developed a passion for working alongside business leaders to deeply understand their businesses, identify their unique challenges, and develop strategies to help them move forward.

Since exiting the world of advertising, Ben has returned to Tulsa to grow a private rental business with his family. This experience has inspired a second passion for real estate and has led Ben to pursue a combination of his professional experiences — helping business leaders navigate their commercial real estate needs in Tulsa. His background in both advertising and business ownership gives him a unique perspective on understanding clients, their goals, and the strategic decisions that shape their businesses.

In his free time, Ben loves hiking, kayaking, cooking, and golf.
